James, Edward, Private Investigator, New York. (no file held)
 Baselson, George, Ex-Lawyer, freelance Corporate Spin-doctor, currently working for Biosyn Corporation, Cupertino, CA. File reference #BAL33.

Personal History :

Very little is known about this man as yet, his position within a major Biotechnology corporation makes it very difficult to obtain any detailed biographical details, however, some ex, and very disgruntled colleagues of Dodgson's have given us some ideas, however, these must be treated with a degree of detachment, as they have a certain bias.

Lewis Dodgson is head of research for Biosyn Corporation, Cupertino, CA, a biotechnology corporation in existence for the last 15 years. One of the largest and most powerful companies in this field, the company has been criticised for lack of ethics in the past, with Dodgson being linked to several incidents of the company blatantly flouting rules over drug testing trials, and of corporate espionage. His associate, Baselson was brought in to provide some positive spin to the company's operations over the last two years, with considerable success. So far Dodgson has been linked to 5 such incidents of Industrial espionage, only one of which he has faced prosecution for, proceedings which were halted due to lack of evidence. His reputation as put to us is ruthless, uncompromising, but capable of extremely flexible and effective problem solving. Rumour has it he has been put under extreme pressure for results recently after several aborted attempts to obtain results from his department, including attempts to infiltrate some related companies networks, buy out bankrupt companies to obtain resources, including files and computer systems. Although he is not reported to carry a weapon, his ruthlessness, and tendency to take extreme action under pressure would not preclude carrying such a weapon.

There is no official biographical information held on him, believed to be in his late thirties, and believed to hold at least a PhD in a biological discipline. Usually very well dressed, independently wealthy, with large expense account.

In Summary, any BlackEagle personnel meeting this individual should be very cautious, obtain guarantees of information, procedures, and confirm details by identifiable landline communications. No operation is to be undertaken without prior consultation with head of your regional office.

Recent Information :

Known to be based in South Florida, address unknown, possibly linked to Biosyn subsidiary properties in Miami. Known to be involved with an attempt to poach an Ingen researcher several months ago, using a BlackEagle cell to intercept the employee who had lost his way in the Red Zone. Violence was used during the attempt, but not by Dodgson, who appears to have employed local Gangers to provide Security.

Still believed to be employed by Biosyn Corporation, he is rumoured to travel widely for the company, so his present whereabouts may always be a mystery.
